To grasp the magnitude of 1666, we must understand the emergence of corporations within society. The earliest Trusts were not legal entities as they are today, they were powerful statements of claim. They were Express Trusts. These required little formality and could even be created orally. They were commonly used for property transfers.

An express trust is a trust created "in express terms, and usually in writing, as distinguished from one inferred by the law from the conduct or dealings of the parties."^[1] Property is transferred by a person (called a trustor, settlor, or grantor) to a transferee (called the trustee), who holds the property for the benefit of one or more persons, called beneficiaries. The trustee may distribute the property, or the income from that property, to the beneficiaries. Express trusts are frequently used in common law jurisdictions as methods of wealth preservation or enhancement.

The first significant Express Trust, in terms of its authoritative claim over humanity was Unam Sanctam, decreed in 1302, where Pope Boniface proclaimed Unam proclaimed himself ruler of the World and everything in it.

9. Furthermore, that every human creature is subject to the Roman pontiff, - this we declare, say, define, and pronounce to be altogether necessary to salvation.

In celebration, the Pope commissioned a gold-plated head-dress in the shape of a pine cone, with an elaborate crown at its base. The pine cone symbolized fertility traditionally associated with Ba'al.

Cloaking yourself in gold is an ancient ritual and one that suggested you were a god, or had a higher authority over another person. Hollywood "stars" still perform this ritual today.

Oligarchy and Monarchy

Bust of Charlemagne (Charles the Great, also known as Charles I, l. 742-

This proclamation of rulership would become significant in the future rise of the Prussian Army. The Prussian army continually evolved into new hosts; it never loses. To best understand the Prussian army, we must understand this: The nation that wins the war, just got occupied by the Prussians. The only reason they won, was because they were already infiltrated, decades earlier. The victory completes the infiltration and seals the belligerent occupation.

The longer-term evolution of this controlling-force was from Persia to Greece, then to Rome and then to Charlemagne, the Holy Roman Empire (HRE). This 'hosting' technique was how the Romans would retreat and re-emerge as wise guides (the Vatican) rather than obvious tax collectors and oppressors. Their payment was now a "voluntary tithe"; not a mandatory tax. Don't be fooled though: If you didn't pay the tithe, you were amongst the great unwashed that would burn in hell. With a compliant population established, taxes were renamed indulgences and the Roman Empire was reigning again.

The future Prussian playbook was already emerging within the cult leadership of the Vatican. The HRE would hand off to the House of Hohenzollern that would in time, become Prussia.

The 13-foot-tall pine cone in Vatican Square symbolizes the role of the Pope as the intermediary between people and God. This was the same authority that resolved the medieval disputes surrounding spiritual and secular jurisdiction over people. The pine cone also represents the pineal gland, or spiritual eye.

In the culture of the ancient Roman Trusts, if no one stood up against their deception and claim, then it remained lawful. All that was ever required was for humanity to resist this regime and the Trustee must stand down.

Adopting this Roman-style rule, the Prussian army was exceedingly violent and the people easily became compliant. In time, this "army of the compliant" would become the Nazi army that willingly stood aside while the government killed all dissidents. Over time, the invisible Prussian Army, would occupy all large corporations around the world. Money was the key, but an even more powerful force, was the imposition of debt. Debt is a powerful form of control. Debt does not have the rights of an owner, but it also enables total control over a corporation. It dictates the behavior of that entity. The Prussian ideology was: "Kill or be killed". This is the same spirit that we see in corporations, world-wide and it is evident in how they do business.

The Unam Sanctam Express Trust proclaimed ownership or control, of every soul on earth and would eventually be incorporated into the "Code of Canon Law" (Codex Iuris Canonici).

The jurisdiction offered by Unam Sanctam was still recognized in the days of Martin Luther. While impossible to fully verify, it is even suggested that he may have privately posited that the pope was the anti-Christ.

All modern religion has a culture where the ‘anointed’ will have rights to rule over another. Christianity teaches that some will “rule and reign” with Christ. Despite Jesus going to great lengths to wash feet and declare his followers must be “servants”, this counterfeit version of Christianity continued to influence society and endear people, ensuring that they wanted to be ruled. This is the type of the Kingdom of Saul in the bible’s Old Testament.

Unam Sanctam

The 1302 papal bull Unam Sanctam was the culmination of the medieval conflict between church and state and declared the unrestricted authority of the papacy over Christendom. The relation of the spiritual, or ecclesiastical, and secular, or temporal, authorities had been at issue in the Latin church since the eleventh century. It was then that Pope Gregory VII sought to reform the church with his cry of libertas ecclesiae—“freedom of the church”—from secular rule. A custom of secular rulers investing bishops with their episcopal regalia at installations had been the neuralgic point. The papacy believed feudal lords had undue influence on the property and local leadership of the church. Supported by the growing body of canon law, Rome began to argue that the pope as head of the church wielded two powers—one spiritual, one temporal—and so secular rulers themselves were under the authority of the pope. This claim provoked an ongoing controversy between popes and emperors that escalated over the next two centuries.

By the start of the fourteenth century, much of the tension had subsided until Pope Boniface VIII and Phillip IV of France rekindled it. Boniface at first opposed Phillip’s renewed taxation of the clergy to support war with England, to which Phillip responded by withholding contributions to Rome. Boniface reconciled with him only to have Phillip reopen the wound by deposing a French bishop, which canon law strictly proscribed because clergy were under the jurisdiction of the church. Boniface composed Unam Sanctam in November 1302 as an answer. The bull restated the position of the earlier Gregorian reforms that ecclesiastical jurisdiction usurped temporal jurisdiction and since the pope was the head of the church that meant temporal rulers were subordinate to the pope as supreme ecclesiastical ruler. Though the bull was never intended to claim papal sovereignty over the secular French government, as Phillip claimed, it nonetheless did assert that all temporal powers and people were subject to papal authority. This enabled Phillip to use it as pretext for an offensive against Boniface. In the summer of 1303, while the pope was at his summer residence in Anagni, a band of mercenaries contracted by Phillip attacked the palace, imprisoned Boniface, and plundered all that was in the residence. The pope was said to be so physically and emotionally shocked by the assault that he died within weeks.

As a papal bull, Unam Sanctam was incorporated into the code of canon law and remained authoritative even in Luther’s day. As he was preparing for the Leipzig Debate in 1519, Luther studied at length what canon law stated about the papacy and on this basis he first suggested privately that the pope might be an antichrist. For Luther, the claim of the papacy to supremacy within the church and to authority over the secular realm departed from the rights of a bishop, led the people away from the content of the gospel, and created further obstacles to the reform of the church.

Under this Unam Sanctam holding trust, sat 3 Testamentary Trusts:

i) Romanus Pontifex (1455).

This Papal Bull (or public decree) conveyed the right-of-use of the “property” within Unam Sanctam (meaning all the earth) as Real Property.

These rights were given to the Pope and successors, forever!

ii) Aeterni Regis (1481)

This means "eternal crown". This is the realm of the Commonwealth (Crown) and where birth certificates create a registered version of ourselves that can interact with corporations and trade legally. Interestingly, it was created on 21 June which is the winter/ summer solstice.

It records how nations were gradually being placed under the rule of the Crown and the Papacy. Humanity was being conditioned to be ruled by strong leaders, just like King Saul in bible times.

The Papal Bull Aeterni regis was issued on 21 June 1481 by Pope Sixtus IV, simply confirmed the substance of the Treaty of Alcáçovas, thereby reiterating that treaty's confirmation of Castile in its possession of the Canary Islands and its granting of all further acquisitions made by Christian powers in Africa (and eastward to the Indies) to Portugal.

The Bull is the legal basis of Don Christopher Columbus's authority as viceregal agent of the Spanish crown in the Americas and one of a series implementing the intent of Romanus Pontifex which was rescinded/redacted by Sublimus Dei.

Several famous treaties such as the Portuguese Treaty of Alcáçovas of 1479, record this incredible transition of nations as a result of the victory of the Catholic Monarchs with these countries.

These nations were lured in to this emerging power-base, as they conquered adversaries and became a part of this new authority that would rule over the people of earth. This spirit of oppression was gobbling up the earth, submitting all nations to its control, and preparing itself to go for world domination.

Already preparing to erode human identity, this Trust relegates human status to our person (which is a created legal identity), rather than our divine self, or soul (this is our true spiritual identity).

iii) Convocation (1537).

This is not directly related to the Crown, but was set up to claim all the “lost souls” which were lost to the See. Baptismal certificates were held in the church archives to record the issued title over each soul. This will make more sense when we are introduced to the 1666 cestui que trust.

This global idea, seized ownership (really control) under the authority of the Pope, was again proven by Columbus' return to Europe in 1494, which saw the signing of the Treaty of Tordesillas, which effectively sub-divided the Americas between Portugal and Spain.

All authority for these decrees was provided by Pope Alexander VI. Pope Alexander issued more Papal Decrees, gradually building up more ‘ownership’. This authority really did control the earth and everything in it. They were doing it by deception; however, they were doing it legally; at least according to their laws. The use of the name “Trust” is also quite telling, now that we can see the broader context. Did Trust Courts once exist in society?

Source: <https://www.guampedia.com/treaty-of-tordesillas/>

More treaties would create new controlling jurisdictions throughout the earth during this period, adding to the vast authority of Aeterni Regis. World leaders petitioned the church for their authority. This was a true merger of church and state, all motivated by people’s desire for safety in numbers.

Forget legalities for a moment and consider that Unam Sanctam represented a powerful idea or belief-form which every state and territory would operate under. These unelected people crafted tremendous spells which were energized by the belief and acceptance of all nations and their people. It made sense because the government was able to protect them by partnering with banks, who would prosper them personally and nationally. Even today, many people still ask that their governments protect them. Humanity has become incredibly reliant on big government and big corporations. This union is the foundation of Marxism.

How could such a force wield such power over the minds of so many people?

To answer this, it is helpful to look to the year 1666. Three significant things happened in this year:

1. A man named Sabbatai Zevi proclaimed himself as Messiah and rapidly developed a large following.
2. Humanity was declared to be 'lost at sea'.
3. The Great Fire of London destroyed medieval London.

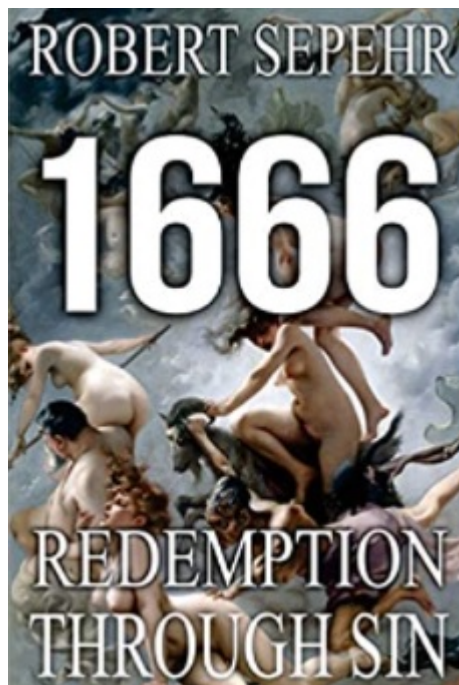

Let's explore each of these events.

1666 – Sabbatai Zevi:

Zevi's movement grew rapidly and would soon gather some very powerful names who would become well known as the founders of more familiar movements such as the "Illuminati" and the founders of the modern banking system. These names were Jacob Frank, Adam Weishaupt and Meyer Amshel Bauer (later Rothschild). This progression is noted in the book, "1666" by Robert Seppehr (image provided later in the text).

Weishaupt and Rothschild were born five years apart and their connection was pivotal to the US, as the Bank of England was utilized by Rothschild in the early 1800s to place the US into debt slavery after the 1776 Revolutionary War and the Battle of Waterloo in 1818. Having just removed the Crown from an obvious enslavement, the US would invite the Crown (the Prussian/ German Rothschild banking system) back to assist with the rebuilding effort. This transition created the illusion of incredible freedom and prosperity; however, it was really just a new form of captivity to the Crown. We are now learning who controls the Crown.

These crypto-Jews (origin from Greek kryptos - κρυπτός, 'hidden') had no connection to the Jewish religion. The Crypto-Jewish phenomenon is defined as the secret adherence to Judaism while publicly professing another faith. This other faith was Catholicism and in more modern times, Judaism or Christianity. The term was applied historically to Spanish Jews who outwardly professed Catholicism, also known as Converso, Anusim, or Marranos. The phenomenon was especially associated with renaissance Spain, following the Massacre of 1391 and the expulsion of the Jews in 1492.

The dates of the Express Trusts Romanus Pontifex (1455) and Aeterni Regis (1481) sit in perfect alignment, as the Crown gathered the nations together into one ownership. The lure was always protection and power. The people willingly submitted to leadership that offered such power.

The first Crypto-Jews may even have been Portuguese. As was happening in Spain during these years, these same timeframes would forge humanity to align with the Catholics (enslaved) or the crypto-Jews (slave masters). The choice is clearer for us to see now, but was not so clear back then, when all the people could see was war, death, disease and hardship.

History even records that people who didn't convert to Catholicism were "forcibly baptized", becoming the first Iberian crypto-Jews.

The first documents mentioning Jewish people in Iberia are from the Visigothic period. It was also in this period that the first documented anti-Judaic persecution took place. Other episodes of persecution would happen again and again during the long troubled history of the Jewish people in Iberia and culminated with the Decrees of Expulsion and the establishment of the Inquisition: some Jews converted to Catholicism while others resisted and were forcedly baptized, becoming the first Iberian Crypto-Jews. In the 18th century the official discrimination and persecution carried out by the Inquisition ended and several Jewish communities emerged in Portugal. From a populational genetics point of view, the worldwide Diaspora of contemporary Jewish communities has been intensely studied. Nevertheless, very little information is available concerning Sephardic and Iberian Crypto-Jewish descendants. Data from the Iberian Peninsula, the original geographic source of Sephardic Jews, is limited to two populations in Portugal, Belmonte, and Bragança district, and the Chueta community from Mallorca. Belmonte was the first Jewish community studied for uniparental markers. The construction of a reference model for the history of the Portuguese Jewish communities, in which the genetic and classical historical data interplay dynamically, is still ongoing. Recently an enlarged sample covering a wide region in the Northeast Portugal was undertaken, allowing the genetic profiling of male and female lineages. A Jewish specific shared female lineage (HVob) was detected between the community of Belmonte and Bragança. In contrast to what was previously described as a hallmark of the Portuguese Jews,

Their origins don't overly matter, as they are effectively not of our bloodlines. These crypto-Jews were a 'created bloodline'; originating from the rebel Jews who would eventually become aligned with the dark satanic movement started by Sabbatai Zevi in 1666. They would proclaim themselves as evil, separating themselves from a humanity that was striving towards love, peace and trust. They would happily align with any religion, lying in order to escape death, and continue on their evil way.

The crypto-Jews would soon take over the world media and become sorcerers who would cast the deceptive spell over all humanity, who were believing in peace and trusting their fellow man. This narrative would compel vast collective agreement, thereby creating the human reality. This spell ensured that those who trusted in authority figures and the media, would be deceived.

Any thought that countered the declared narrative would be shut down. Shutting down such narrative would involve being burned at the stake, removed from authority seats, prohibited from speaking publicly and being labelled as a conspiracy theorist. Eventually, anyone straying from the approved narrative (or the spell) of the major industrial-establishments on earth, would be labelled a heretic, hippy or a quack. Such people would be 'shamed' back into the fold or be decried as an outcast and maybe killed – actually or metaphorically, depending on the era you lived in.

Here is an excerpt from the book, "1666" by Robert Sepehr:

Most people have heard of Jesus Christ, considered by Christian followers to be the Messiah who lived over 2000 years ago. But very few people have ever heard of Sabbatai Zevi, who declared himself to be the Messiah in 1666. He amassed a following of over one million believers, half the world's Jewish population during the 17th century, by proclaiming that redemption was available through acts of sin.

Considered a heretic by many of his contemporary Rabbis, nonetheless, his fame extended far and wide. Sabbatai's adherents planned to abolish many of the ritualistic observances, because, according to the Talmud, in the Messianic time there would no longer be holy obligations. Fasting days became days of feasting and rejoicing. Sexual promiscuity, adultery, incest and religious orgies were encouraged and practiced by Sabbateans.

After Sabbati Zevi's death in 1676, his philosophy would be continued, and expanded on, by his Kabbalist successor Jacob Frank. Frankism, a religious movement of the 18th and 19th centuries, centered on the leadership of the Messiah claimant Jacob Frank. He, like Zevi, would perform strange acts that violated traditional religious taboos, such as eating fats that were forbidden by Jewish dietary laws, ritual sacrifice, promoting orgies and sexual immorality.

Jacob Frank would eventually enter into an alliance formed by Adam Weishaupt and Meyer Amshel Rothschild called the Order of the Illuminati. The objectives of this organization was to undermine the world's religions and power structures, in an effort to usher in a utopian era of global communism covertly ruled by their hidden hand: the New World Order. Using secret societies, such as the Freemasons, their agenda has played itself out over the centuries, staying true to the script. Opposition is handled by a near total control of the world's media, academic opinion leaders, politicians and finance. While still considered a conspiracy theory to many, more people are waking up each day to the reality that this is not just a theory, but a true conspiracy.

Mayer Amshel Bauer was a Prussian and changed his name to “Red Shield” or Rothschild. This was the Prussian way: retreat and appear to lose, while infiltrating the next host. It is actually quite a brilliant war strategy.

These secret societies created spells that essentially informed people’s reality and their context of existence. This ‘global narrator’ and would act as a collective mind virus. With our ongoing permission, this story-teller will continue to rule us and guide our experience of life. It is all done via our agreement and belief in its truth. When presented onto television, these spells gathered enormous collective energy.

The good management of the earth and the people upon the earth, have now become heavy burdens that sit upon humanity. Actually, the Pope took full responsibility for it all, if I recall correctly.

Humanity is now under the spell of many Corporations (Prussians) who are joined with the mainstream media (the narrator), through collective ownership. Corporations are the modern and 'glamorous' face of an ancient system of Trusts that considers that it 'owns' us all. They don't just believe it; they are enforcing their rule over humanity.

The Prussian ideology governs the will of mankind. They ask that we assign our free will over to them, to do with as they please. Without people’s resistance, these world leaders consider that we are in tacit agreement with their rules, which effectively operate like contracts.

1666 – Lost at sea:

An obvious question is how do large corporations control humans in this way? Being a part of nations that are the property of ancient trusts, the birth of humans become something that was registered by a birth certificate. Similar to cargo, the parents would sign the bond document as “informants”. The child (asset) is now held in Trust, which is held as collateral. The Trustee is the government, but above that it is the Crown and the Vatican. From here, each person is made liable for taxes and fines. Essentially, citizens are like a balance-sheet and we’ve forgotten that the asset being managed, is ourselves.

In 1666, the Crown declared that all people on earth were lost at sea. The Cestui Que Vie Act 1666 declared that if our natural being remained beyond the seas or elsewhere absent in this Realm for seven years without proof of life, then that person shall be accounted as naturally dead.

[I.] Cestui que vie remaining beyond Sea for Seven Years together and no Proof of their Lives, Judge in Action to direct a Verdict as though Cestui que vie were dead.

If such person or persons for whose life or lives such Estates have beene or shall be granted as aforesaid shall remaine beyond the Seas or elsewhere absent themselves in this Realme by the space of seaven yeares together and noe sufficient and evident prooffe be made of the lives of such person or persons respectively in any Action commenced for recovery of such Tenements by the Lessors or Reversioners in every such case the person or persons upon whose life or lives such Estate depended shall be accounted as naturally dead. And in every Action brought for the recovery of the said Tenements by the Lessors or Reversioners their Heires or Assignes, the Judges before whom such Action shall be brought shall direct the Jury to give their Verdict as if the person soe remaining beyond the Seas or otherwise absenting himselfe were dead.

The word 'corporate' has its origins from the Latin 'corporatus' and 'corporare' meaning "form into a body" and is derived from the word 'corpus', or corpse.

Is there any way to redeem our identity inside this Realm? Yes. Our true identity has been declared to be a corpse, however the Act does provide for a restoration of the estate if there is proof of life. From this declaration, the burden rests upon us to proclaim proof of life. Being aware of this legal provision is a work of consciousness and remembrance of our soul, as one with God.

The Act also provides for a return of profit and interest.

IV If the supposed dead Man prove to be alive, then the Title is revested. Action for mean Profits with Interest.

[^{X2} Provided alwayes That if any person or [^{X3} person or] persons shall be evicted out of any Lands or Tenements by vertue of this Act, and afterwards if such person or persons upon whose life or lives such Estate or Estates depend shall returne againe from beyond the Seas, or shall on prooffe in any Action to be brought for recovery of the same [^{X3} to] be made appeare to be liveing; or to have beene liveing at the time of the Eviction That then and from thenceforth the Tennant or Lessee who was outed of the same his or their Executors Administrators or Assignes shall or may reenter repossesse have hold and enjoy the said Lands or Tenements in his or their former Estate for and dureing the Life or Lives or soe long terme as the said person or persons upon whose Life or Lives the said Estate or Estates depend shall be liveing, and alsoe shall upon Action or Actions to be brought by him or them against the Lessors Reversioners or Tennants in possession or other persons respectively which since the time of the said Eviction received the Proffitts of the said Lands or Tenements recover for damages the full Proffitts of the said Lands or Tenements respectively with lawfull Interest for and from the time that he or they were outed of the said Lands or Tenements, and kepte or held out of the same by the said Lessors Reversioners Tennants or other persons who after the said Eviction received the Proffitts of the said Lands or Tenements or any of them respectively as well in the case when the said person or persons upon whose Life or Lives such Estate or Estates did depend are or shall be dead at the time of bringing of the said Action or Actions as if the said person or persons where then liveing.]

1666 – Fire of London:

The Great Fire of London swept through the central parts of London from 2 – 6 September 1666. The fire gutted the medieval City of London inside the old Roman city wall. It threatened but did not reach the City of Westminster (today's West End) or Charles II's Palace of Whitehall. It destroyed 87 parish churches, St Paul's Cathedral and most of the buildings of the City authorities.

The relationship between 'the city' and 'the Crown' was often tense. The City of London had been a stronghold of republicanism during the English Civil War (1642–1651) and the wealthy and economically dynamic capital still posed a potential threat to Charles II. Recall that the tensions between the jurisdictions of church and state over the rights to control the people was the predicate for Unam Sanctam in 1302. So also, the English Civil War revealed emerging powers (likely economic, political and religious) that posed a threat to the Crown (Charles II at this time). A new structure (or context) would need to be ushered in.

1666 would prove to be a significant year, where the nature of human enslavement would be recontextualized allowing for people to be held in Trust, as corporations. This would give rise eventually, to debt slavery, but only after a series of contrived wars and famine, which was the Prussian playbook.

There is no surviving record of a charter first establishing the Corporation as a legal body, but the City is regarded as incorporated by prescription, meaning that the law presumes it to have been incorporated because it has for so long been regarded as such (eg the Magna Carta states that "the City of London shall have/ enjoy its ancient liberties").

Evidence of this 1666 shift in the nature of "corporations" would impact the City of London, soon after. The City of London Corporation had its privileges stripped by a writ quo warranto under Charles II in 1683, but they were later restored and confirmed by an Act of Parliament under William III of Orange and Mary II in 1668-1690, after the Glorious Revolution. Significant political unrest followed over the next few decades.

The Revolution ended a century of political dispute by confirming the primacy of Parliament over the Crown, a principle established in the Bill of Rights 1689. This appears to establish the authority of the people, but remember, London is a corporation and the people have been declared to be lost a sea, twenty-three years prior. The unsettled patriots would stand down, believing they now controlled the Crown, but it was a trick to settle the uprising.

Additionally, the origins of global central banking started in 1694 when William III of Orange ruled over the creation of the privately owned Bank of England (BoE) as the Government's banker to fund its wars, which were emerging everywhere. This bank would help place most of Europe into debt. Some good references are here:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/William_III_of_England

The 1694 BoE was eventually nationalised in 1946 and is now wholly owned by the "Treasury Solicitor". Don't be fooled by the name, as the new owner is still just another corporation masquerading as government. The Treasury Solicitor Act of 1876 established it as a "corporation sole".

Government Legal Department

The Government Legal Department (previously called the Treasury Solicitor's Department until 2015) is the largest in-house legal organisation in the United Kingdom's Government Legal Service.

The Department is headed by the Treasury Solicitor. This office goes back several centuries. The office was enshrined in law by the Treasury Solicitor Act 1876, which established the Treasury Solicitor as a corporation sole (an office with perpetual succession).^[2]

Employees of the department exercise legal powers which are vested in the corporation sole.

The department is a non-ministerial government department and executive agency.^[3] The Treasury Solicitor reports to the Attorney General for England and Wales. The department employs more than 1,400 solicitors and barristers to provide advice and legal representation on a huge range of issues to many government departments.

Look at the lead up to the establishment of the BoE. Understanding the Prussian playbook reveals that nobility was essentially working together. Battles and changes in Monarchs were irrelevant as the Prussians were nobility and they were collaborating to create the prototype for central banking.

It is unknown exactly when the Exchequer was established, but the earliest mention appears in a royal writ of 1110 during the reign of King Henry I.^[12] The oldest surviving Pipe Roll is that of 1130.^[13] p.159^[14] Pipe Rolls form a mostly continuous record of royal revenues and taxation; however, not all revenue went into the Exchequer, and some taxes and levies were never recorded in the Pipe Rolls.^[15] p.219

Under Henry I, a procedure adopted for the audit involved the treasurer drawing up a summons to be sent to each sheriff, who was required to answer with an account of the income in his shire both from royal demesne lands and from the county farm (a form of local taxation). The chancellor of the Exchequer then questioned him concerning debts owed by private individuals.^[16] 73–74

By 1176, the 23rd year of the reign of Henry II which is the date of the Dialogue concerning the Exchequer,^{[11][17]} the Exchequer was split into two components: the purely administrative Exchequer of Receipt, which collected revenue, and the Exchequer of Pleas, a law court concerned with the King's revenue. Appeals were to the Court of Exchequer Chamber. Following the proclamation of Magna Carta, legislation was enacted whereby the Exchequer would maintain the realm's prototypes for the yard and pound. These nominal standards were, however, only infrequently enforced on the localities around the kingdom.

From the late 1190s to the expulsion of the Jews in 1290, there was a separate division for taxation of Jews and the law-cases arising between Jews and Christians, called Exchequer of the Jews (Latin: Scaccarium Judaeorum).^{[18][19]}

Through most of the 1600s, goldsmiths would deposit their reserve of treasure with the Exchequer, sanctioned by the government. Charles II "shut up" the Exchequer in 1672, forbidding payments from it, in what Walter Bagehot described as "one of those monstrous frauds... this monstrous robbery". This ruined the goldsmiths and the credit of the Stuart government, which would never recover it. In 1694, the credit of William III's government was so bad in London that it could not borrow, which led to the foundation of the Governor and Company of the Bank of England.^[20]

The records of the Exchequer were kept in the Pell Office, adjacent to Westminster Hall, until the 19th century. The office was named after the skins (then "pells" or pelts) from which the rolls were made.^[21]

As a side note, the timing of the nationalization of the BoE in 1946 and the creation of the State of Israel in 1948 is too coincidental. Recall that the area known as Israel had been held under the British Mandate from 1920 – 1948.

Look at the patterns around the BoE and the funding of the rebuilding of Europe. Now look at the patterns behind the Rothschild's entry into the United States. Rothschild took a considerable hold on the UK banking system following the battle of Waterloo in 1815. History shows that Nathan Rothschild knew of the Waterloo result in advance, sold British Government Bonds, creating panic and then bought them again for a fraction of the price. Effectively controlling the BoE, Rothschild would commence the rebuilding of the US, who was looking to rebuild and grow from the Revolutionary war of 1776.

The rule of these evil people under the guise of corporations, sits in full view, provided you know where to look and you give conscious-permission for such a captivity to be a part of our reality.

Even the Rothschild name was derived from the German words “rothen schild”, meaning "red shield". The emblem is Prussian.

Look at the head-dress and clothing of the Hessian army mercenaries/ soldiers. They were Prussian soldiers who fought with the British against the US in the Revolutionary war. The pictures speak powerfully. Interestingly, it has been noted that half of Germany’s top ten banks are located in Frankfurt-on-main in the Province of Hesse, short for Hessenland or “land of the Hessians”.

After 1776, the Prussian army would need to reinvent itself in order to remain hidden. As slavery was slowly becoming less-acceptable, debt-slavery was far less obvious, because it feels like prosperity.

Globalism may look sophisticated, but the authority behind it is extremely evil. This dark authority almost seemed prepared, morphing quickly into something that appeared benign - finance. This was a key purpose of The Treaty of Paris in 1783 where the King of England would continue profiting from the corporations in America. It appeared to give freedom, but it was just a new form of slavery.

Recall that hilarious Trump interview where three times, he said we must go back and look at the “oranges” of the investigation, being the 2016 attempted coup against him. He said we must go to the beginnings. Could he be revealing that William of Orange may be have been the start of our debt slavery, which is our current captivity, when he created the privately owned Bank of England as the Government’s banker to fund its wars? The evolution of Prussia from 1694 would suggest it is absolutely possible.

Trump ‘oranges’ interview:

Trump can't pronounce the word origins - says "oranges" 4 times

This BoE would help place the world into debt, but first it would place Europe into debt-slavery, as a trial run. The Prussians love to trial their initiatives and build capacity before they implement them.

An invisible hand sits behind humanity, exerting control over the human will. This hidden virus scours the earth, looking for hosts who will adopt its ideology, and wage war against dissenters. You cannot leave a captivity that you cannot see.

That is exactly right on the money! The NAZIS in America had the support of Woodrow Wilson, George Bernard Shaw and Margaret Sanger. They had their own train in the 20's after WWII the OSS brought their leadership here, put them in NASA, LOS ALOMOS, OAKRIDGE, state, FBI and the CIA. They had already infiltrated us before we even started WWII. They came over here after WWI.
