

The Prussian Pontiff

Will Zoll

Nov 15, 2021

♡ 10    💬 3    ➦

The Great Suicides:

On May 18, 2017, Chris Cornell was deemed to have committed suicide by hanging himself from a doorknob.

On July 20, 2017, Chester Bennington was deemed to have committed suicide by hanging himself from a door.

On April 20, 2018, Tim Bergling (Avicii) was deemed to have committed suicide.

On June 5, 2018, Kate Spade was deemed to have committed suicide by hanging herself with a scarf tied to a doorknob.

On June 6, 2018, Ines Zorreguieta was deemed to have committed suicide by hanging herself in her Buenos Aires apartment. She was 33.

On June 8, 2018, Anthony Bourdain was deemed to have committed suicide by hanging himself with a bath-robe belt from a doorknob.

These tragedies occurred with a frequency and correlation that was too far outside the standard deviation to be considered coincidence. While all were labelled with mental disorders, there is an even darker underlying theme that potentially forms a deeper connect to these poor souls.

For Chris Connell and Chester Bennington, it was widely-rumored that the two were working on a documentary to expose child trafficking called, "The Silent Children".

The Silent Children Documentary

📅 February 27, 2019 👤 renegade 💬 6 Comments

Famous musicians Chris Cornell and Chester Bennington were working on a documentary to expose the trafficking of children, then they ended up dead and the project was killed.

source: <http://www.renegadetribune.com/the-silent-children-documentary/>

Additionally, Chris Cornell and his wife set up a foundation to protect the most vulnerable of children.

6 CHARITIES

28 ARTICLES

15 CAUSES

3 VIDEOS

In 2012, Chris and wife Vicky created the Chris and Vicky Cornell Foundation, which fights to protect the most vulnerable children, developing projects and programs working with leading charitable organizations and partners to raise awareness and mobilize support for children facing tough challenges, including homelessness, poverty, abuse and neglect.

Chris Cornell has passed away, but we remember his charity work.

Source: <https://www.looktothestars.org/celebrity/chris-cornell>

For Avicii, it was that he denounced child trafficking in his video, “For A Better Day”.

Kate Spade worked directly with the Clinton Foundation and with the Clintons in Haiti. It is rumored that her child may have been a target of “something”, and that compelled her to make statements about the Clintons; although nothing substantial can be found in this regard. However, her death was very strange, with her sister publicly stating she was “threatened to speak out about her sister’s mental health”. Considering that was the reason for the suicide, and that mental health was the issue of the day, this seems a rather odd threat to make; especially from the estranged husband.

'I have been threatened': Kate Spade's sister says she was warned after speaking out about the designer's battles with mental health - as her son says widower Andy is leading a 'cover up' and only cares about his own image

He also sparked concerns of his own when he donned a bizarre mouse mask as he left his home just days after the tragic death of wife Kate

<https://www.clintonfoundation.org/press-releases/clinton-foundations-no-ceilings-initiative-unveils-not-there-unprecedented>

<https://archive.md/IFaAs>

As for Anthony Bourdain, his dislike of Hillary Clinton was no secret. It appears the feeling was mutual.

What are “operatives” and who are those that inflict Hillary’s “wrath”? Bourdain also had it in for Harvey Weinstein. Was his partner, Asia Argento, an victim of Weinstein?

 Anthony Bourdain
@Bourdain Follow

.@AsiaArgento I am proud and honored to know you. You just did the hardest thing in the world.

From Aggressive Overtures to Sexual Assault: Harvey Weinstein's Accusers T...
Multiple women share harrowing accounts of sexual assault and harassment by the film executive.
newyorker.com

Interestingly, it has been reported that Harvey Weinstein contracted an infection (Fournier's gangrene) which resulted in a terribly deformed penis. This is a strange coincidence that Frederick the Great of Prussia and Adolph Hitler suffered from the same fate. The immense power these two men wielded and the ailments to their penises is described here:

Prussia Gate

---

The Power of the Prussian Micropenis

Adolph Hitler's maniacal vision of totalitarian expansion and his subsequent reign of terror required an inspiration beyond the realms of human action. He needed to invoke a spirit beyond the limitations of human consciousness. He needed a providence that showed him the pathway to his vision...

Read more

a month ago · 2 likes · 1 comment · Will Zoll

Did Weinstein's unfortunate condition invoke a similar spirit to that of his penile-defunct predecessors?

<https://www.news.com.au/entertainment/celebrity-life/harvey-weinsteins-unusual-private-deformity-explained/news-story/da0282d2a641d8858054d284f0c9218e>

Then there is Ines Zorreguita. Ines suicide is claimed to be years in the making, again due to ongoing depression and mental illness. There is very little about Ines' life that exists on the internet. This is strange for an apparent socialite who rubbed shoulders at the highest levels, but not surprising when one considers whose shoulders were rubbed.

Queen Maxima of Holland's younger sister dies at 33 of an apparent suicide at her apartment in Buenos Aires

- Inés Zorreguieta was found dead in her apartment on Wednesday night
- A Dutch government spokesman said her death was an apparent suicide
- The 33-year-old is thought to have had depression and mental health issues
- Queen Maxima has cancelled all engagements and is set to fly to Argentina

By KHALEDA RAHMAN FOR MAILONLINE

PUBLISHED: 21:18 AEDT, 7 June 2018 | UPDATED: 15:29 AEDT, 8 June 2018

Share

4.3k
shares

214
View comments

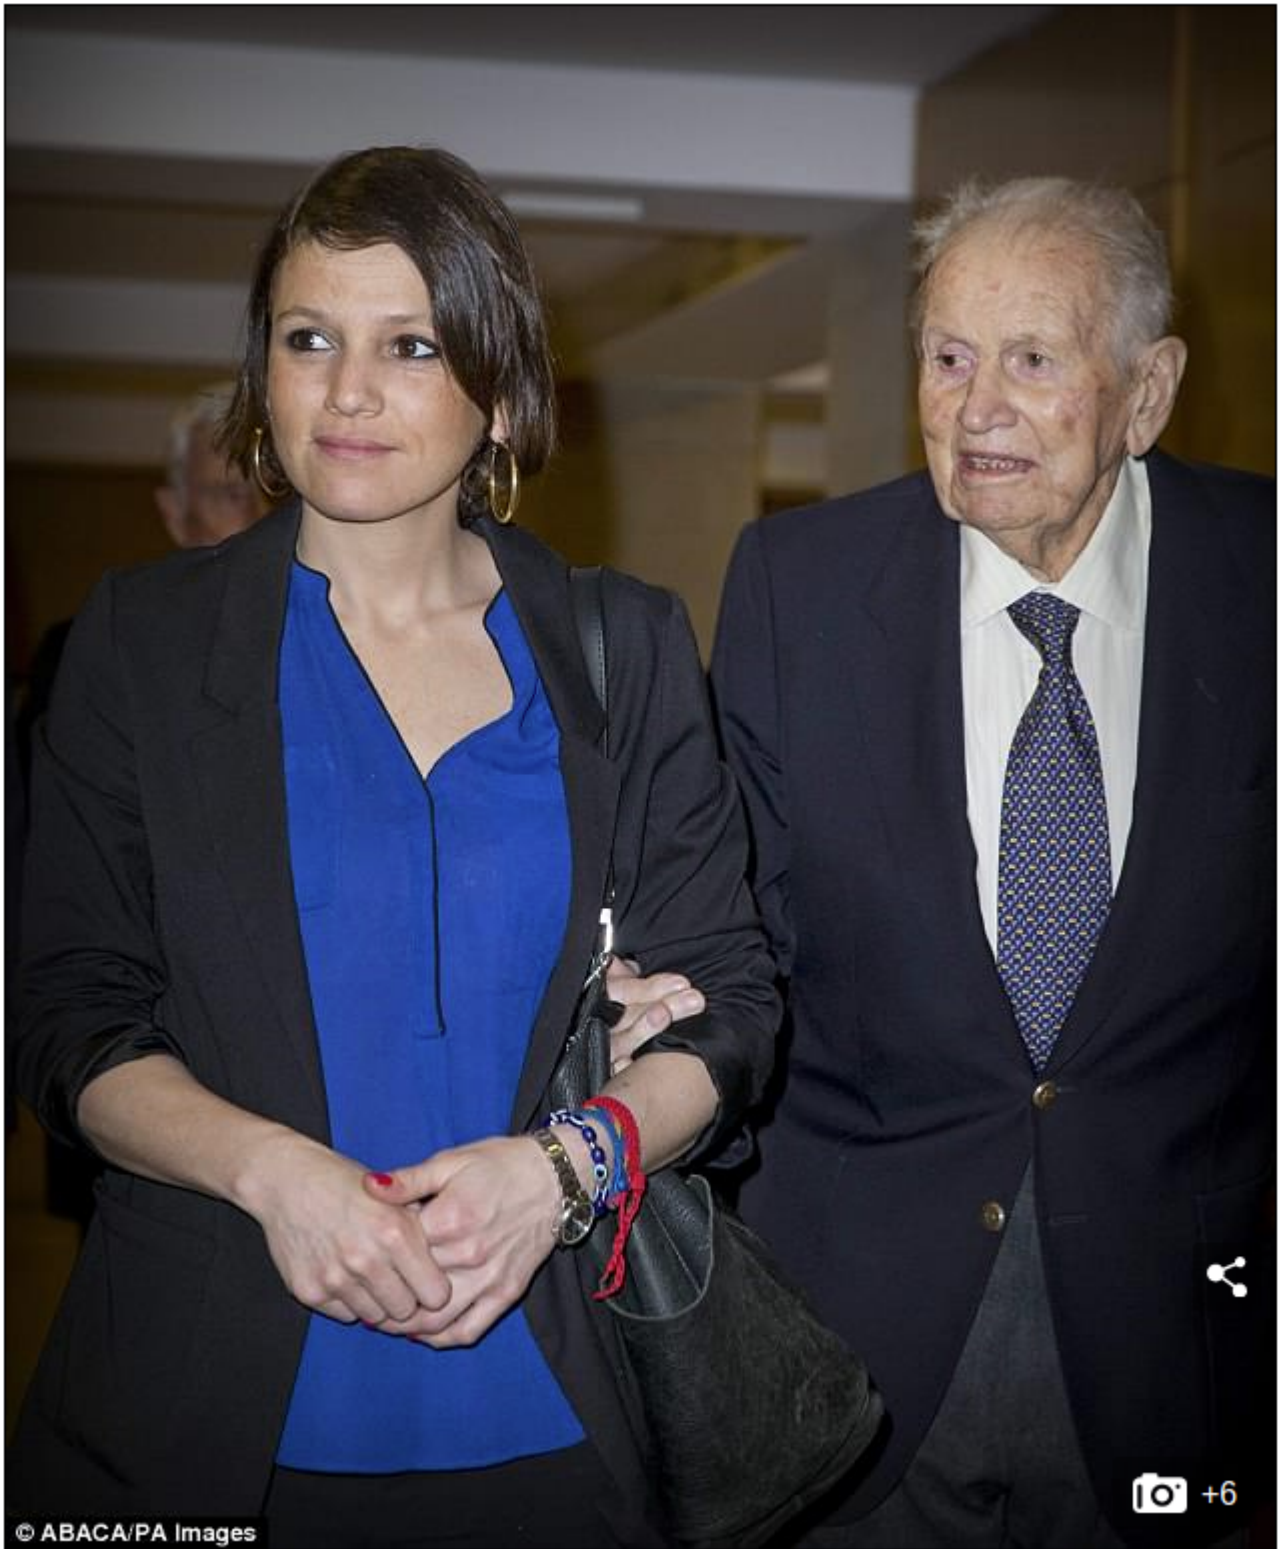

The younger sister of Queen Maxima of Holland has been found hanged at her home in Argentina.

Inés Zorreguieta, 33, was found dead at her apartment in Buenos Aires late on Wednesday night.

A spokesman for the Dutch Embassy in Argentina told La Nacion that authorities 'assume it was a case of suicide.'

Inés is thought to have suffered from depression and mental health issues.

You will notice that Ines is the sister of Queen Maxima of the Netherlands.

Inés Zorreguieta, pictured with her late father Jorge Zorreguieta last year, worked for the government in Argentina

Source: <https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-5816311/Queen-Maxima-Hollands-younger-sister-dies-33-suicide.html>

You will also notice that Ines' father, Jorge, worked for the Argentinian government. The Argentinian government in question was none other than that of another Jorge. Jorge Videla headed one of the most brutal fascist dictatorships in modern history.

This was a military dictatorship that eerily rhymed with that of Adolph Hitler, and was located in the country that provided safe-harbor to Nazis who fled Europe to avoid war-crime convictions. This was a military dictatorship that committed heinous atrocities against men, women and children. During this dictatorship, yet another Jorge enters the story. The head of the Argentinian Jesuit church at the time was Jorge Bergoglio and he would be investigated for crimes committed to priests during the Videla regime.

Jorge Bergoglio is Pope Francis.

Ines was connected to the Dutch Royal family by her sister; to the fascist Videla regime by her father; and to almost every celebrity socialite that expressed their outrage at crimes against children. These celebrities then met their unfortunate demise to suicide; most at the hands of a doorknob.

These peculiar coincidences sit well outside of the standard deviations, and far too many of these 'roads', lead us back to Prussia.

Argentina; Prussian Paradies Wunderbar:

Argentina was designated a territory of the Spanish Empire in the 16th Century, before declaring independence from Spain in 1810 and eventually establishing itself as a Republic.

While the official de facto language is Spanish, many other European cultures arrived to settle in the Republic of Argentina. One of note was the Germans.

It is well known that there were many Nazis who fled to Argentina after WWII, however Germans already established themselves in Argentina well before WWII, dating back to 1827. From 1885 to WWI, 100,000 German speaking immigrants migrated to Argentina. In the 1930s, many German Jews tried to escape Nazism by migrating to Argentina. Today, approximately 8% of the Argentine population (about 3.5 million) are German Argentines.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/German\_Argentines

Argentina has a lot in common with Germany. Their geography is very similar. Some German Argentines have tried to recreate German towns in their new country. La Cumbrecita is one such example.

Source: <https://edition.cnn.com/travel/article/la-cumbrecita-argentina/index.html>

It was so popular, that the Nazis decided to build hideouts in Argentina as an insurance policy of losing WWII.

Source: <https://edition.cnn.com/travel/article/la-cumbrecita-argentina/index.html>

Archeologists have discovered ruins in a remote jungle region of Argentina that are believed to be Nazi hideouts intended to act as safe havens if Germany lost World War II.

Source: <https://time.com/3753829/argentina-nazi-history-teu-cuare-world-war-ii/>

Soon after Germany (not Prussia) lost WWII, thousands of Nazis from all over Europe were “getting the hell out of Dodge”; trying to escape the inevitable war-crime arrests that were sure to follow. For many reasons, Argentina became the Nazi escape of choice, with thousands successfully making it to the country after the war.

A list of 12,000 names of Nazis in Argentina Leads to Stolen Wealth in Swiss Banks

NEWS WORLD WAR II

Mar 11, 2020 Erik Mustermann

Nazis in Argentina. Immediately after World War II, when many ranking members of the Nazi party in Germany were looking for somewhere safe to hide, they turned toward South America.

There they found a safe haven in countries such as Argentina.

Source: <https://www.warhistoryonline.com/news/nazis-in-argentina.html>

Argentina remained somewhat neutral during WWII, but its European heritage was clearly favored toward the Axis powers. After a series of coup d'états from 1943, Juan Peron became President and openly welcomed Nazi War Criminals into Argentina. Heinous Nazi war criminals such as Ante Pavlic (Croatia), Dr. Josef Mengele and Adolf Eichmann were amongst those who were welcomed to Argentina.

Eichmann (known as the architect of the Holocaust) was eventually kidnapped in Buenos Aires by a Mossad team and subsequently taken to Israel where he was tried and executed, in 1962.

Open door to evil

Richard Gott on a dreary version of Argentina's welcome to wanted men in Uki Goñi's The Real Odessa: How Perón Brought the Nazi War Criminals to Argentina

📷 Banal evil ... the Eichmann trial is to be filmed. Photograph: AP

The Real Odessa: How Perón Brought the Nazi War Criminals to Argentina
Uki Goñi

source: <https://www.theguardian.com/books/2002/jan/26/historybooks.highereducation>

In addition to the open arms provided by Argentina, the Nazis also required a passage to get to the other side of the world safely. This would be provided with the help of the Vatican; these routes were known as “the ratlines”.

The ratlines: What did the Vatican know about Nazi escape routes?

After World War II, thousands of Nazis fled to South America along so-called ratlines — often with the help of Catholic clergy. The Vatican is now opening its archives from the time. Will it be a moment of truth?

Some 90% of Nazi perpetrators who escaped Europe are thought to have fled across the Alps to Italy — that was the first loophole.

Their first stop was in the South Tyrol region of northern Italy: the monastery of the Teutonic Order in Merano, the Capuchin monastery near Bressanone or the Franciscan monastery near Bolzano. The war criminals would often hide out in monasteries — these ratlines are also known as the "monastery route" — for years, collecting money to continue their escape overseas. Sometimes, the Nazis were accommodated right next to their former victims, Jews headed to Israel.

Their first stop was a monastery of the Teutonic Order. The Teutonic Order is Prussian.

life of the state. The distinctive military history of Prussia was developed early on its history from the origins of the Teutonic knights and brought to a level of perfection throughout the reigns of Frederick William the Great Elector, Frederick William I and Frederick II. These gifted strategists due to their individual history and the accomplishments of the previous generation achieved military innovations. The Teutonic

http://www.collegetermpapers.com/TermPapers/S/History\_of\_Prussian\_Military.html

In 1511, Albert of Prussia became the Grandmaster of the Teutonic Order. As he dissolved the Teutonic State, he founded the Duchy of Prussia. This was the beginning of the House of Hohenzollern.

Nothing could ever escape the grip of the House of Hohenzollern or Prussia. Several other papers in the #PrussiaGate series show the move of Prussia into Germany in 1871 and then into the Nazi regime. We now see that many Nazi escapees made their first stop at their own Teutonic Order.

After stopping in Merano, the escapees received the help of the Catholic Church; obtaining fake identity papers from the International Committee of the Red Cross.

Rome was the next stop. The Nazis who had a letter from the Catholic Church confirming their identity were handed a passport by the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC), which issued about 120,000 papers until 1951 — a mere formality.

"The story goes that even before the end of the war, there was a clearly thought-out and elaborate plan for Nazi escapees," Stahl said. "That is wrong, even the likes of Franz Stangl first wandered around Rome without knowing what to do next." Information was passed on word of mouth.

A name that regularly crops up is Alois Hudal. The Austrian bishop had clearly positioned himself as a Nazi sympathizer during Nazi rule, and later he said many of those persecuted were "completely blameless" and that he "snatched them from their tormentors with false identity papers."

Source: <https://www.dw.com/en/the-ratlines-what-did-the-vatican-know-about-nazi-escape-routes/a-52555068>

History would record that those passports, obtained from the Red Cross, allowed for the most inhumane war criminals to escape their deserved fate. This was all aided and abetted by members of the clergy, who positioned themselves as Nazi sympathizers.

The Nazi escapees, with their ICRC passports, were received into Argentina with the complicity of the Argentine government and the Church. While some were eventually caught, tried and punished, many others managed to settle in South America.

Over the next thirty years, Nazism began to proliferate through South America. It was during this period when the story of the Jorges begins to emerge.

The Three Jorges Damnation:

Argentina became a hotbed of Nazis after WWII. Juan Peron, a Nazi sympathizer with a dictatorship that mirrored fascism, welcomed many war criminals to his country. However, without the aid of the Prussian Teutonic Order and the Catholic Church's Red Cross passports, many of those trying to escape war-crimes would never have arrived in Argentina.

Many Nazis lived a relatively peaceful life in quiet seclusion, possibly even rising into positions of national influence. Considering the fate suffered by their victims, this was an unforgiveable injustice that humanity has suffered.

Unfortunately for Argentina, the Providence of Prussia had found a perfect place to rejuvenate. Argentina would spawn three men, all named Jorge, who still have a profound effect on humanity today.

Jorge Videla

In 1976, Argentina suffered another coup d'état. The “National Reorganization Process” was effectively a military dictatorship or “military junta”. Over the next 7 years, Argentina suffered under a brutal fascist-regime, remarkably similar to that of Nazi Germany. Tens of thousands of Argentinians perished under this regime. It was a regime headed by the General Jorge Videla.

Argentina’s coup was led by General Jorge Videla. A devout Catholic, Videla was influenced by the ideology of Opus Dei, an international proto-fascist Catholic organization. The junta ran Argentina Videla’s regime instantly invoked the spirit of the Nazis, reverting to similar tactics against anyone who was against the policies of the regime. This was all straight out of the Prussian playbook.

Commonly called the “Dirty War,” the terror in Argentina was actually concerted genocide against any who sided with the have-nots of society. Universities were occupied by troops, books burned, political meetings banned. “Anyone working with the poor was suspect,” reported former Dominican nun Joan McCarthy in La Prensa. “There were no trials. They just killed you...” The church hierarchy

The crimes of the Videla regime were vast and well-known. The tragedies are too numerous to describe. At one stage it was reported that approximately 30,000 Argentines had “disappeared”.

Most of the victims were workers, students, Jews, guerilla fighters, hundreds of nuns — many hurled alive from military planes into the river. An estimated 30,000 Argentines were “disappeared.”

Source: <https://socialism.com/fs-article/pope-francis-the-catholic-church-and-argentinias-dirty-war/>

Perhaps the greatest tragedy of the Videla regime, were the crimes against children. Many children lost both their parents to Videla's arrests and tortures. Some women prisoners were pregnant, and once they gave birth, their babies were taken by the state.

The Stolen Children of Argentina

Between 1976-1982 some 30,000 Argentines were "disappeared," their children seized by the junta. The Abuelas—the Grandmothers—of the Plaza refuse to forget.

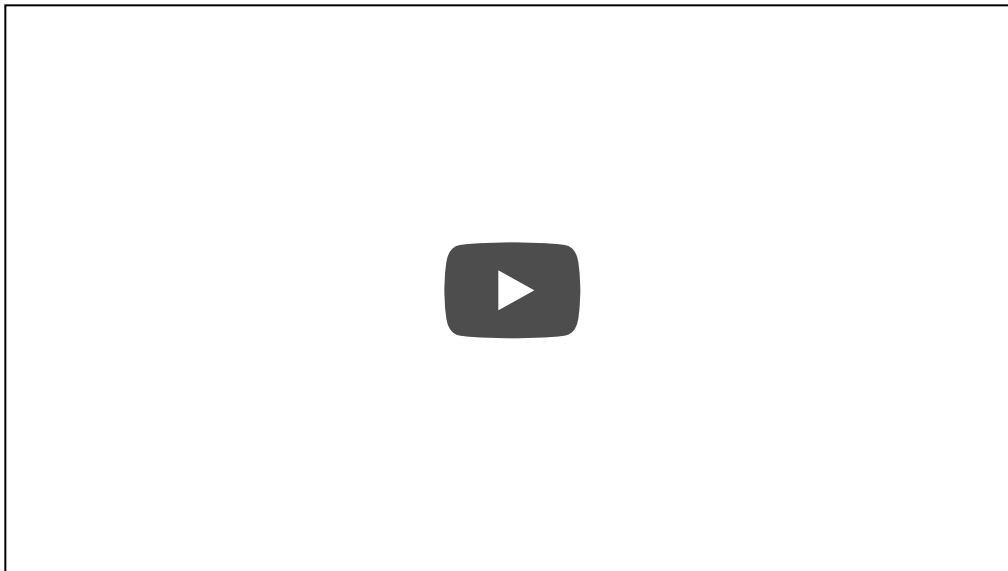

Press conference on the restitution of Granddaughter #126 via Abuelas de Plaza de Mayo/Photographer Gaspar Galazzi

During the junta's "Dirty War" between 1976-1982, some 30,000 Argentines, the majority between 16 and 35 years old, were "disappeared." The junta aimed to remove an entire generation of "subversives." The bodies of most have never been recovered because they were buried, blown-up, or dropped into the sea. Those victims with children were punished generationally: the regime wanted their children to know nothing of their parents and to grow up as part of the "family" of the fascist regime. Some of these kidnapped children were abandoned on the streets or dumped in orphanages; others were given as rewards to officials and loyal supporters of the generals (as in Adriana's case).

Source: <https://daily.jstor.org/stolen-children-of-argentina/>

Videla and some his generals were eventually convicted of war crimes and sentenced to life in prison, only to be pardoned 5 years later. This evil invisible hand of Prussia never retreats from battle. Despite the pardon, Videla was later convicted for the theft of babies during his despotic reign of terror.

For more information on Videla and his reign of terror, this documentary goes a long way to explain his brutal regime:

Perhaps one of the greater tragedies, was the complicity of the Catholic Church. Reminiscent of the safe-harboring of Nazi escapees, the clergy of Argentina's church served Videla's fascist regime. The head of the Jesuits in Argentina at the time, Jorge Mario Bergoglio, or Pope Francis.

Jorge Bergoglio

The current Pope needs no introduction, but the history of what occurred in Argentina under the watch of the Catholic church during the brutal fascist reign of Jorge Videla, does.

At the time, Bergoglio was the head of the Jesuits in Argentina and knew Videla reasonably well.

General Jorge Videla takes communion from priest Jorge Mario Bergoglio

Jorge Mario Bergoglio and General Jorge Videla

Source: <http://internationalnews.over-blog.com/tag/religion/>

The tragedies suffered by Argentines under Videla were unspeakable. Perhaps the worst crime of all were the children and babies effectively kidnapped during the “Dirty War”. While many of them were adopted out to families of the fascists, the fate of many others remains unknown. For those families who lost loved ones, the cruellest aspect of this crime, is not knowing if their family members are still alive and maybe even walking amongst them.

This regime did not escape pursuit of human rights lawyers and activists. Videla was eventually re-jailed for his crimes against children and he died in prison in 2013. However, those in the church who were complicit with Videla’s regime are still being pursued, having yet to face justice.

Argentine Catholic Church in the dock over snatching of babies during military dictatorship

Verbitsky accused former bishop Raul Primatesta of giving consent to military officials to drop off babies snatched from detainees in a Córdoba foster home.

The CELS president also referred to the complicity of bishop Adolfo Servando Tortolo, who was the military vicar and confessor of dictator Jorge Videla

Source: <https://en.mercopress.com/2015/08/28/argentine-catholic-church-in-the-dock-over-snatching-of-babies-during-military-dictatorship>

The accusations against the Catholic Church have come thick and fast. There were rumors that the Argentine Catholic Church even held files on everyone that was missing.

Videla himself stated that he had informed the Catholic Church of the “disappeared”:

Cardinal Primatesta met regularly with Videla and Papal nuncio Laghi played tennis with Massera

Argentine former military dictator said he kept the country's Catholic hierarchy informed about his regime's policy of “disappearing” political opponents, and that Catholic leaders offered advice on how to “manage” the policy.

Ex General Jorge Videla said he had “many conversations” with Argentina's primate, Cardinal Raúl Francisco Primatesta, about his regime's dirty war against left-wing activists. He said there were also conversations with other leading bishops from Argentina's episcopal conference as well as with the country's papal nuncio at the time, Pio Laghi.

“They advised us about the manner in which to deal with the situation,” said Videla in a series of interviews conducted by the magazine El Sur in 2010 but published last Sunday.

Videla also stated that the church “advised” him. Could the Church and the Government have “each other over the same barrel”, so to speak?

Source: <https://en.mercopress.com/2012/07/24/argentine-military-dictator-confirms-catholic-church-hierarchy-was-well-aware-of-the-disappeared>

When Jorge Begoglio (Pope Francis) finally became head of the Vatican it appeared he would provide access to files the Church held on those who had disappeared.

The archive includes around 3,000 letters from people seeking assistance from the Catholic Church in their bid to find missing relatives or loved ones – the so-called “disappeared” who were secretly abducted by authorities during the country’s Dirty War, which saw thousands of executions, baby kidnappings and other atrocities.

The Church did not always do everything it could have and we ask forgiveness for that Archbishop Mario Poli

But rather than providing the files in good faith and transparency, it appears the Pope only did so after pressure from human rights groups.

Pope Francis ordered the archive to be opened due to pressure from human rights groups

What is worse, is that there appears to be other “sensitive material” relating to dealings between the clergymen and the military junta, that won’t be released.

But other more sensitive material, including files involving the clergymen attached to the military, remain under lock and key.

“As far as we know they haven’t destroyed anything,” the Archbishop of Buenos Aires Mario Poli said at a press conference, explaining that each diocese has its own archive.

Source: https://english.elpais.com/elpais/2016/10/26/inenglish/1477479994\_596853.html

As head of the Jesuit movement, Jorge Bergoglio has also been implicated in working with the Videla regime. While association is not a crime, the allegations levelled at Jorge provide a startling revelation as to the alleged nature of the relationship between the two men.

The allegations were made by two Jesuit priests who were directly affected by the Jesuits and the Videla regime.

Father Bergoglio, whether by choice or otherwise, soon found himself embroiled in the terror.

Two young Jesuit priests, Orlando Yorio and Francisco Jalics, were kidnapped by government forces on May 23, 1976, imprisoned for five months at a clandestine detention centre, tortured, and later found lying drugged and semi-naked in a field.

Days before their disappearance, according to memoirs and statements made later by the priests, they had been dismissed from the Jesuit order by Father Bergoglio for having ministered to residents of the slums, which were considered hotbeds of anti-regime agitation. Kicking the priests out of the order is seen by many Argentines as a move that, in the polarized climate of the Junta, may have served as a clear signal to the military dictatorship that they were to be targeted.

In a 1995 memoir, Father Jalics, who now lives in Germany, accused Father Bergoglio of betraying them.

"Many people who held far-right political beliefs frowned on our presence in the slums," the priest wrote. "They thought we were living there in support of the guerrillas, and set out to denounce us as terrorists. We knew which way the wind was blowing, and who was responsible for these slanders. So I went to [Father Bergoglio] and explained that they were playing with our lives. He promised that the military would be told that we were not terrorists. But from subsequent statements by an officer and 30 documents that we were able to access later, we saw without doubt that [Father Bergoglio] had not kept his promise but, on the contrary, had filed a false complaint with the military."

Source: <https://www.theglobeandmail.com/news/world/pope-francis-and-the-junta-in-search-of-what-really-happened-in-argentina/article9844585/>

These accusations, and others like it, were contested by Bergoglio. However, a question remains over the 30 documents that Jalics was referring to, as he claims that would prove that Bergoglio had communicated with the military junta and sealed their fate.

While the Pope is releasing letters requesting the Church's help in relation to the many "disappeared" people, he ensured the files relating to his alleged military communications were kept under lock and key.

There have been many accusations made at Pope Francis throughout his career and well after the terror of the Videla regime. These accusations never tend to stick. However, rather than listen to the accusations of others, the words uttered from Jorge Bergoglio's own mouth reveal who he truly is.

POPE FRANCIS CALLS FOR 'NEW WORLD ORDER' AFTER THE PANDEMIC

14,968

EMAIL

PARLER

TWEET

Source: <https://www.breitbart.com/national-security/2021/03/15/pope-francis-calls-for-new-world-order-after-the-pandemic/>

The New World Order, as we shall hopefully discover throughout this extensive investigation, is uniquely PRUSSIAN.

From the militant Teutonic Order 800 years ago; nurtured by its caretakers, the Hohenzollerns – the kings of Prussia, Kaisers of Germany and the princes of Orange. Prussia was evolving into the war machine envisaged by Frederick the Great, and providing the inspiration for Adolph Hitler and finally, global fascism. The New World Order is a quest for control of the entire world. This was always the end goal for the Prussian globalist. Pope Francis has declared his allegiance to it. His training in Argentina would be useful once they went global. This is why he was moved from the Argentinian Jesuit Order into the Vatican. The jurisdiction of this great evil had signalled its intent.

Jorge Zorreguita

The last of the three Jorges, is Jorge Zorreguita. He is infamous for being the father of the suicided Ines Zorreguieta and Queen Maxima of the Netherlands. He is also known for playing an active role in the cabinet of Jorge Videla.

After the 1976 Argentine coup d'état of General Videla, Zorreguieta became Deputy Secretary of Agriculture. From March 1979 until March 1981 he was Secretary of Agriculture and Livestock. He was preceded by Mario Cadenas

Source: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Jorge\_Zorreguieta

This became a significant problem for his daughter Maxima's wedding plans. The Dutch people were outraged at the war-crime history of Maxima's father. The outrage was so great that Jorge was not allowed to travel to the Netherlands to attend his own daughter's wedding.

QUEEN MÁXIMA'S FATHER WAS BANNED FROM ATTENDING HER WEDDING DUE TO HIS ALLEGED INVOLVEMENT WITH A MURDEROUS DICTATORSHIP

SOURCE: MEGA

<https://www.theroyalobserver.com/p/queen-maxima-father-banned-from-wedding-dictatorship>

Ines Zorreguita was only a young girl at that point and was allowed to attend the Royal wedding, but without her father.

While I don't think anyone is a stranger to family intrigue, this particular match made in 'House of Orange heaven' has a rather bitter taste to it. Maxima and King Willem-Alexander met in Spain at a party, and the rest is history. However, there is some speculation suggesting that this meeting between the two was not entirely random.

Some sources have suggested that the meeting was planned by Prince Bernhard, who was looking for a suitable woman for his son and secretly arranged everything with his Argentinean friend, Jorge Zorreguita (Máxima's father), to make sure Máxima met Willem-Alexander.

Source: <http://www.eurochannel.com/en/The-Story-of-Maxima-orreguieta.html>

If there was any substance to the rumor it would certainly raise an interesting question, especially given the Nazi-endavors of the young Prince Bernhard leading up to WWII.

Prince Bernhard and his daughter Queen Beatrix
Photo: REX FEATURES

"Bernhard, A Secret History" has revealed that the prince was a member of the German Nazi party until 1934, three years before he married Princess Juliana, the future queen of the Netherlands.

Annejet van der Zijl, a Dutch historian, has found membership documents in Berlin's Humboldt University that prove Prince Bernhard, who studied there, had joined Deutsche Studentenschaft, a National Socialist student fraternity, as well as the Nazi NSDAP and its paramilitary wing, the Sturmabteilung.

He left all the groups on leaving university in December 1934, when he went to work for the German chemical giant, IG Farben.

Source: https://www.bibliotecapleyades.net/sociopolitica/esp\_sociopol\_blacknobil31.htm

The "Stormabteilung" (SA) or "Storm Division" were Hitler's infamous stormtroopers of the day. When leaving "all groups" he went to work for IG Farben in 1934. IG Farben was a huge benefactor of the Nazification of Germany, amassing a fortune that still exists today in the companies it was broken into after WWII.

One of IG Farben's subsidiaries supplied the poison, Zyklon B gas, that killed about a million people in gas chambers during the Nazi reign.

"If a Farben supervisor was not satisfied with the tempo of the work, he reported that to the SS command and that meant severe punishment for the individual inmate or for the detail."

(Norbert Wollheim, hearing of witness, November 13, 1947. Archive of the Fritz Bauer Institute, Subsequent Nuremberg Trials, Case VI, Prot. (e), reel 005, Vol. 11, pp. 3700-3718, here p. 3707.)

"Civilians frequently said: 'If you don't work faster, you'll be gassed,' or 'then you'll be reported.'"

(Benedikt Kautsky, hearing of witness, January 29, 1953. HHStAW, Sec. 460, No. 1424 (Wollheim v. IG Farben), Vol. II, pp. 257-264, here p. 264. (Transl. KL))

So, we learn that the grandfather of the future King of the Netherlands, Willem-Alexander from the House of Orange, was a card carrying member of the Nazi SS, later to become an employee of the company that manufactured Zyklon B gas for gas chambers. The father of Maxima, the future Queen of the Netherlands, was part of an Argentinian military junta that was eerily reminiscent of Nazi Germany, in a country that openly accepted Nazi war criminals after WWII, and with a Catholic Church that helped them every step of the way.

Whether the rumors of the arranged meeting between Jorge and Bernhard are true or not, it is another coincidence that is completely outside of normal probability.

Ines Zorreguita – the Conspiracy Theory

The Ines Zorreguita conspiracy theory could just be a series of inexplicable coincidences; a set of correlated events that fits a narrative. Sometimes, any conspiracy-narrative can be curve-fitted to align with past events. The death of Ines may be exactly that. However, considering everything just mentioned, the following claim deserves more attention than just a passing glance.

In 2017, Jorge Zorreguita died of natural causes. As the story goes, Ines decided to do some housecleaning following her father's death. What she allegedly found shocked her.

Ines decided to clean and make some inventory of his properties, and what she found would be instrumental in her demise. Ines accidentally found a video gallery and blackmail vault. These films exposed several HUGE political figures from the '70s and '80s raping women and children on film.

source: <https://totaldisclosure.net/louder-than-love/ines-zorreguieta/>

After discovering this, it is said that Ines plotted to have the information exposed.

Celebs, musicians, and even soccer players perpetrated horrible crimes in the videos. Ines made the mistake of telling lots of people about the videos, including her sister Maxima. Ines made copies and showed them to her friend Natasha Jaitt, who in exchange sent the evidence to Avicii. The Swede was

Could the disappearances during the 70s and 80s and the Catholic Church's "files" on the missing, have anything to do with Ines' "suicide"

Now, who is Natacha Jaitt?

She is an Argentinian celebrity who was living in Buenos Aires the same time as Ines Zorreguita. She came to fame on Big Brother Spain about 20 years ago and was recently known as a high-class escort in Argentina.

However, at around the time Jorge Zorreguita died, Natacha Jaïtt comes out on live TV in early 2018 and declares she has evidence of a widespread child sex ring. The video with English subtitles can be seen here:

Natasha Jaïtt Discusses Pedophile Network

By early 2019, Natacha Jaïtt was found dead of a suspected overdose.

Actress Natacha Jaïtt accused several celebrities in Argentina of involvement in a child sex ring on live TV in 2018. Mere months later, she was found dead of a suspected "overdose."

After actress Natacha Jaïtt accused prominent media members and political figures in Argentina of involvement in a child sex ring, she tweeted out an ominous message to the world.

In April 2018, she stated on her Twitter page that she had no intentions of killing herself, and that her untimely death should be extremely suspect if it should occur.

Source: <https://allthatsinteresting.com/natacha-jaïtt>

In yet another crazy coincidence, Natacha Jaitt was scheduled to give a court testimony on her claims.

---

“Two weeks before she was scheduled to give court testimony against Gustavo Vera, whom she accused of sex trafficking and who is a close associate of Pope Francis, she was found dead.

Copy Tweet

Source: <https://www.churchmilitant.com/news/article/argentine-whistleblower-found-dead-family-suspects-murder>

Again, answering one question leads to another question: Who Gustavo Vera? He is a close associate of Pope Francis; the pair still speak regularly.

After Bergoglio's elevation to the Holy See, he invited Vera to visit him at Casa Santa Marta, where the pope baptized the children of their mutual friend Lucas Schaerer.

In February 2015, Vera published a private email sent to him from the pontiff, who feared Argentina would soon be afflicted with many of the troubles experienced in Mexico.

Pope Francis still calls Vera once a week.

The possible conspiracy surrounding Ines Zorreguita is of an unfathomable scale, assuming the following timeline is all related:

- After WWII, Nazis escaped into Argentina with the aid of the Catholic Church via “ratlines” and the Red Cross, via Passports.
- Argentina embraced fascism during the same period as Germany, Italy and Spain. By 1976, the brutal fascist dictatorship of Jorge Videla had taken control of Argentina.
- This period was characterized by kidnapping, rape, torture and even “baby snatching”; with many families never knowing the fate of their “disappeared” loved ones and the children they birthed in concentration camps.
- Videla informed the Catholic Church of the “disappeared”, who kept thousands of letters from families as well as the Church’s communications with the military junta, which still remain secret.
- The future Pope Francis, Jorge Bergoglio – who gave communion to Videla – was the head of the Jesuit church in Argentina during the reign of Videla, was accused by two Jesuit priests of his involvement in their kidnapping and torture.
- In 2017, Jorge Zorreguita died. He had served as minister in Videla’s regime. His daughter Ines allegedly discovered many video tapes of women and children raped by high profile figures dating back to the 70s and 80s. This was the same period Videla's kidnappings and baby snatchings took place.

- Ines was rumored to have told many others about her discovery. There were also rumors of a documentary being produced to expose it all.
- Within the following 12 months many celebrities, including Ines, who had publicly voiced their concern about child abuse, would commit suicide – most by hanging from a door knob.
- During the same period, another Argentine woman, Natacha Jaite, claims she had a huge amount of evidence exposing rampant child abuse. One of the accused is a close friend of Pope Francis – Gustavo Vera. Two weeks before she would provide court-testimony, she was found dead of an apparent drug overdose.

And finally, in a strange twist, the other daughter of Jorge Zorreguita, Maxima, ends up marrying the future King of the Netherlands, Willem-Alexander. It is rumored that Jorge and the grandfather of Willem-Alexander (Prince Bernhard) arranged for the pair to meet in Spain. Jorge and Bernhard both have ties to fascist regimes directly related to the Nazis.

Maxima and Willem-Alexander's daughter will eventually be crowned Queen of the Netherlands, from the House of Orange.

Everything that is of Prussia, stays in Prussia.

Saved by Prussia, Loyal to Prussia:

Jorge Bergoglio was the head of the Jesuit church in Argentina during the time of Jorge Videla. The Jesuits or “Society of Jesus”, was formed in 1534 by Ignatius Loyola for the expressed purpose of defending the Papacy against the Protestant Reformation. Effectively, the Jesuits became the secret army of the Papacy.

The Jesuits will be a separate analysis in this larger investigation. However, it is important to note that the Jesuits have been carrying out unwanted mischief for many centuries amongst Western European kingdoms. By 1759, they were to be decreed by monarchs to be removed from their lands.

"The Society of Jesus expelled from the Kingdom of Portugal by the Royal Decree of 3 September 1759"; as a carrack sets sail from Portuguese shores in the background, a bolt of lightning strikes a Jesuit priest as he attempts to set a terrestrial globe, a mitre, and a royal crown on fire; a bag of gold coins and a closed book (symbols of wealth and control of education) lie at the priest's feet.

The suppression of the Jesuits was the removal of all members of the Society of Jesus from most of the countries of Western Europe and their colonies beginning in 1759, and with the approval of The Holy See in 1773. The Jesuits were serially expelled from the Portuguese Empire (1759), France (1764), the Two Sicilies, Malta, Parma, the Spanish Empire (1767) and Austria and Hungary (1782).

Source: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Suppression\_of\_the\_Society\_of\_Jesus

By 1773, even the Pope agreed to get rid of the Jesuits. It seemed their fate was sealed unless they were able to find safe-harbor from their expulsion.

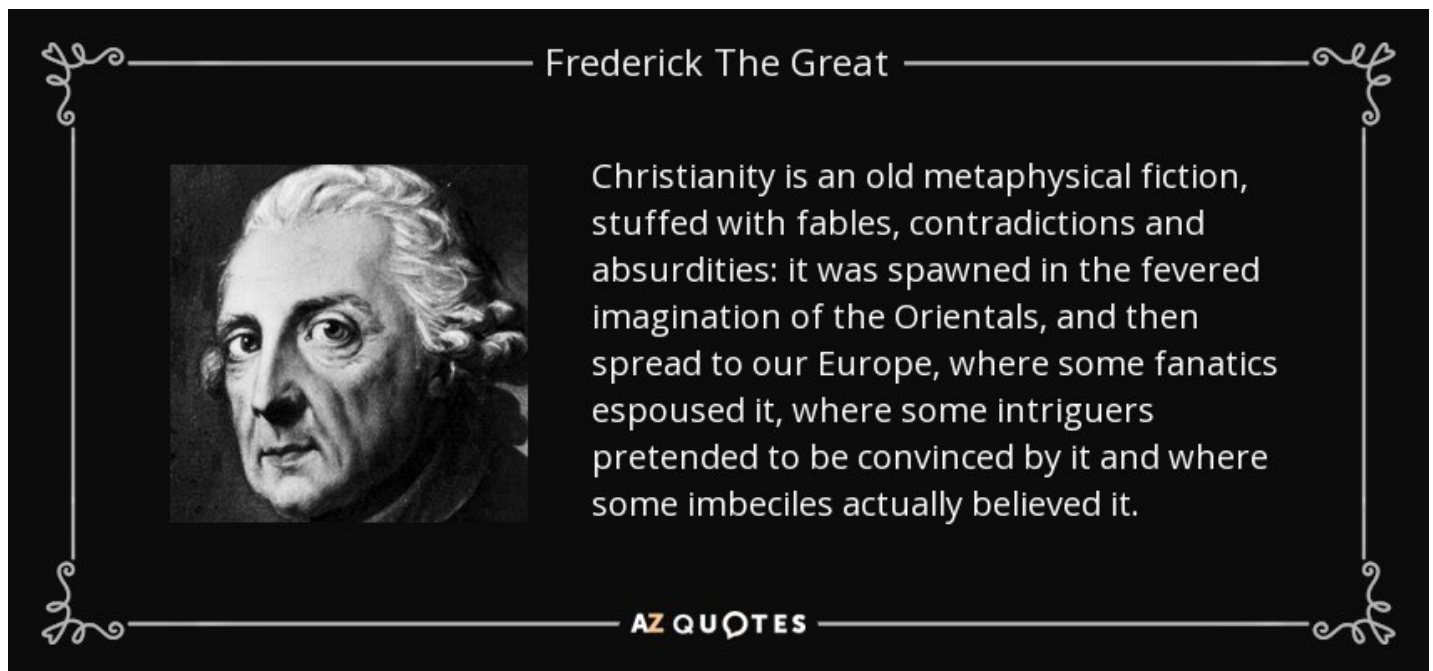

That safe-harbor was found partly in Prussia under King Frederick the Great.

The Suppression is the most difficult part of the history of the Society. Having enjoyed very high favor among Catholic peoples, kings, prelates, and popes for two centuries and a half centuries, it suddenly becomes an object of frenzied hostility, is overwhelmed with obloquy, and overthrown with dramatic rapidity. Every work of the Jesuits — their vast missions, their noble colleges, their churches — all is taken from them or destroyed. They are banished, and their order suppressed, with harsh and denunciatory words even from the pope. What makes the contrast more striking is that their protectors for the moment are former enemies — the Russians and Frederick of Prussia. Like many intricate problems,

Source: <https://www.newadvent.org/cathen/14096a.htm>

While it is unlikely, but not impossible, that Frederick invited the Jesuits for a spot of music and “hot cockles” at “sans , souci .”, the protection of the Jesuits went against the German peoples embracing of Protestantism. The Jesuits were a militant group who were loyal to the pope, and against the Protestant Reformation

Frederick the Great, one of the great intellectuals of the day and one of the greatest Generals of all time, would never pass-up an opportunity to expand Prussian power. He was well-known to have a unsavory view of Christianity in general.

This brings us to the ultimate question: Why would Frederick the Great be interested in saving the Jesuits at a time when their fate appeared sealed?

Power?

“Prussia is not a nation with an army, but an army that controls nations”, Comte de Mirabeau.

What better way to increase that army and its ability to control nations than by adding the secret army of the Papacy to your Military command.

For the Jesuit Order to survive, did it swear an oath of loyalty to King Frederick the Great and to Prussia? Did the Vatican know about it?

The old structure of the Jesuit Order only required the General to swear allegiance to Prussia, as his disciples swear their allegiance to him. The General of the Jesuits is known as the Black Pope.

For the first time in history, a Jesuit has been elected Pope: Jorge Bergoglio – Pope Francis.

The Prussian Pontiff

Adolph Hitler was inspired by the spirit of Frederick the Great and the militant supremacy of Prussia under Frederick’s reign. Nazism and its ideology, therefore, can be traced back through to the militant state of Prussia which did not seek to become a geographical state at all, but rather a Providence that declared war on anyone who did not walk lock-step with Prussia and its ideology.

In more recent times, Argentina became a sanctuary for Nazis, who were free to move around via the Vatican “ratlines”. Videla’s approach was, comply or die. It was a very Prussian strategy.

A few decades after Videla, the daughter of one of the Videla fascists marries into the Prussian nobility, becoming Queen Maxima of the House of Orange. Around the same time, the head of the Argentine Jesuits becomes Pope. This is the same Jesuit Order that was saved from persecution in the 18th century by none other than Frederick the Great of Prussia.

Prussia is an invisible enemy. It is a deep state that does not seek to own geography, but instead control a nation’s people via their ideology. The transition of Pope Francis from controlling a nation to controlling the world, signalled the deep state’s intention to commence the implementation of its New World Order. This Prussian vision had been touted for decades, most famously by the reference to the “Big Idea” of the New World Order, by George ‘Poppy’ Bush.

1991 - Bush 41 Announces The New World Order

If Frederick the Great utilized the services of the Jesuits for his own of expansion, they effectively became his secret army. This could become an army of Catholic devotees, kissing the hand of an “enlightened despot” whose spirit was actually serving the invisible hand of Prussia, as they established the New World Order.

The Catholic regime would become a secret army, akin to a mafia, and the ‘innocent’ leader – Pope Francis, in his previous Jesuit life, was notoriously known as the “Godfather”.

Anyone who gets in the way of their master, mysteriously finds themselves “disappeared” or suicided; usually by hanging from a door-knob.

1982: 'God's banker' found hanged

The body of a top Italian banker has been found hanging from Blackfriars Bridge in London.

Known as God's banker for his links with the Vatican, 62-year-old Roberto Calvi was the chairman of Banco Ambrosiano in Milan and a central figure in a complex web of international fraud and intrigue.

He had been missing for the last nine days before his body was discovered by a passer-by hanging from scaffolding on a riverside walk under the bridge.

Police are treating the death as suicide.

Watch/Listen

Roberto Calvi was found dead under Blackfriars Bridge in London last night

PLAY VIDEO

Background to the Calvi case

http://news.bbc.co.uk/onthisday/hi/dates/stories/june/19/newsid\_3092000/3092625.stm

POPE FRANCIS COMPARES VATICAN WHISTLEBLOWER TO SATAN

<https://www.breitbart.com/politics/2018/09/11/pope-francis-compares-vatican-whistleblower-satan/>

IF SATANISTS TOOK OVER THE VATICAN

WOULD YOU NOTICE?

Give me the child until he is seven and I'll give you the man.

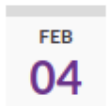

Francis Xavier

quotefancy

Francis Xavier, Jesuit

POPE FRANCIS CALLS FOR 'NEW WORLD ORDER' AFTER THE PANDEMIC

<https://www.breitbart.com/national-security/2021/03/15/pope-francis-calls-for-new-world-order-after-the-pandemic/>

Roman Catholic Archbishop Carlo Maria Viganò Says That Pope Francis Is Fulfilling The Revelation Prophecy Of The Coming Synagogue Of Satan

United against the Invisible Enemy of all humanity, I bless you and the First Lady, the beloved American nation, and all men and women of good will.

+ Carlo Maria Viganò
 Titular Archbishop of Ulpiana
 Former Apostolic Nuncio to the United States of America

Subscribe to Prussia Gate

By Will Zoll · Launched 3 months ago

An invisible hand sits behind humanity, exerting control over the human will. This hidden virus scours the earth, looking for hosts who will adopt its ideology, and wage war against dissenters. You cannot leave a captivity that you cannot see.

♡ 10

💬 3

➦ Share

Write a comment...

Europa The Last Battle Dec 17, 2021

Europa; The Last Battle is much more factual

♡ Reply

mlafayette Dec 13, 2021

The deeper one he goes the clearer one sees

1 Reply

1 more comments...

Ready for more?

Subscribe

© 2022 Will Zoll. See privacy, terms and information collection notice

Publish on Substack

Prussia Gate is on Substack – the place for independent writing