

Council of the Gods - Part IV

Endless Wars

In the last article, we explored the control that was being applied upon the US people by corporate monopolists. Such was the absolute power behind their influence; US Presidents became complicit.

Is it possible that this regime still exists today?

Trump's 2023 Memorial Day post was notable in its content, particularly his reference to terrorists and thugs working "within" the US. He goes on to say "we must stop the communists, Marxists and fascist 'pigs' at every turn":

Was Trump's reference to terrorists within the US, potentially referring to the "council of the gods"?

What would it look like today if American Legion had continued to implement its vision from the 1950s? If they were fascists then, is it conceivable that they are still fascists now?

In the 1950s, monopolists were violently subverting the will of the people; planning to subject them to everlasting hardship; deploying "storm troopers" against progressive worker's organizations and trade unions; and preparing the people for war.

In the last article, we showed that a report to Congress dated 30 August 1942, even reported that representatives of American monopolists and German fascists discussed "applying German-fascist methods in the internal affairs of the USA".

Let's look at Legion's overall strategy:

The "worthy activity" of the American Legion was wholly directed toward rousing war hysteria in the US, preparing the country for a new military adventure of the imperialists, cruelly suppressing the progressive movement, and mercilessly putting down of any attempt by the workers to defend their rights and achievements.

There are not the slightest doubts about the political sympathies of the Legion's top echelon. They are always with those who are preparing for war. They are mortal enemies of those who fight for peace. In 1933 the heads of the Legion awarded the title of Honorary Legionnaire to Benito Mussolini. American reactionary circles more than once planned a Fascist revolution in the US with the assistance of the Legion. Its bosses never stop for a minute the frantic propaganda, full of furious anger, against the Soviet Union.

This 1933 appraisal of the invisible, embedded enemy feels as relevant today as it was back then. They even considered those who fight for peace to be "mortal enemies".

While the war being waged today is largely invisible, 2023 was a year where we witnessed kinetic conflict in Ukraine. On June 6, 2023 Ukraine deployed a 'dirty bomb' into Russian territory. The code name of the military unit behind the attack was intriguing:

On Tuesday, the FSB Public Relations Center said that Ukrainian military intelligence was plotting terrorist attacks in Russia, including with the use of a "dirty bomb." According to the FSB, GUR-affiliated military unit No. 3449, code-named "Legion," was tasked with coordinating the use of light aviation for executing sabotage missions.

The name “Legion” was adopted by Zelensky in February 27, 2022, as he called on the international military community to join Ukraine. He referred to the conflict as “as a struggle between the global rules-based order and authoritarianism, a fight against Russian war criminals”.

The Harvard International Review highlights the opportunities provided by Legion:

Like the Gurkhas of the British Army, the French Foreign Legion, founded in 1830, has a reputation of being an elite fighting force. Selection for the Legion is also very strict, with only the fittest and most capable recruits being chosen. In the past, the Legion served as a haven for many with a criminal past seeking to start a new life. After WWII, many former Nazi soldiers even served in the Legion’s ranks during the First Indochina War. Nowadays, there is a thorough vetting process in place, though the Legion continues to be a place where people come for adventure, purpose, and to start a new life.

Is Zelensky gathering an army of “legionnaires”, who have joined with Ukraine from foreign countries? Are these funds coming from global monopolists who are trying to kick-start WW3?

There is another battle taking place; it is a war for the mind of the people. How long can war mongers remain invisible, away from a war-time context? A peace-time context slowly reveals the folly of things such as foreign occupation and mass surveillance.

Maintaining a constant war footing requires a constant enemy; it requires that the people believe there is a constant threat to their freedom. Instilling the idea of a constant threat into the collective psyche can be heard in the non-stop media talking points: “Right-wing extremists are a threat to our democracy”; “MAGA threatens our freedom”; “right-wing extremism is a threat to our constitution”; “election-deniers are a threat to our democracy.”

Today, American Legion supports veterans, and funds numerous youth programs throughout the country.

Legion was formed in America in 1919, which ironically, is about one year after the Thule society consolidated in Germany; a society we featured in Urania – Part 4. This detail would not be worth noting, except that the two organizations had very similar connection points into their local communities:

1919

March 15-17

Members of the American Expeditionary Force convene in Paris for the first American Legion caucus.

May 8-10

St. Louis Caucus. "The American Legion" is adopted as the organization's official name. The Legion's draft preamble and constitution are approved.

June 9

The National Executive Committee adopts the Legion emblem.

Sept. 16

Congress charters The American Legion.

Nov. 10-12

First Legion convention convenes in Minneapolis. The Constitution and preamble are adopted. Delegates vote 361-323 to locate the Legion's national headquarters in Indianapolis, instead of Washington. A resolution is passed in support of Boy Scouts of America. Today, the Legion is the chartering agency for more than 1,700 Scouting units made up of approximately 64,000 youths.

Urania – Part 4 showed that the “Sieg Heil”, “mein Fuhrer”, swastika and SS lightning bolts were all symbols that originated in the boy scouts. The CIA’s own report presents a damning picture of Legion’s founders, noting their desire to oppress human rights, and their violent objection to peace.

Urania - Part 3 revealed the recruitment pool used by Ernst Rohm and the SA. We cast no accusation against anyone working within American Legion, however this pattern shared by the two organizations is eerily similar:

Hitler Youth leader Baldur von Schirach was known as "The Baby" by the Nazi inner circle of pederasts.

Let's detour briefly and look at the Neo-Nazi presence in Ukraine, which has been in the news over the last year or so. The Azov Brigade is a neo-Nazi formation in the Ukrainian National Guard; it is one Ukraine's top military units.

Before Russia's 2022 operation in Ukraine, nearly every Western institution raised alarms about Azov. Afterwards, all support went towards the Ukraine. Did something happen between Ukraine and the western media?

One thing that did happen was that Kateryna Yushchenko, who served as first lady of Ukraine from 2005 to 2010 became very vocal. Yushchenko, a former White House and State Department official, told the Tribune that she has been "very distressed the West isn't doing enough... The world cannot just stand by and watch... If the world does not stop Putin here, you will have to fight him in your own country."

Notably, Kateryna's father served in the Soviet Army, and was captured by German forces and taken to Germany in 1942. Incredibly, her parents met in Germany before immigrating to the US in 1956.

Here's the reason for this little detour. As a youngster, Kateryna went through the "Scout Camp Plast" and went on to become a member of the Neo-Nazi organization, National Alliance:

Former US Marine and UN Weapons Inspector, Scott Ritter, has recently shed light on Kateryna and her interesting past. We highly recommend Ritter's new series that is exposing the stark reality of current events in Ukraine. Part 1 can be found here:

There's that signal again. With all the espionage activity taking place around 1950, was it just a coincidence that Plast Ukrainian Scouting Organization - USA was incorporated in the State of Michigan in 1950?

Anyway, let's get back to American Legion.

Since its inception, Legion has awarded a Distinguished Service Medal:

Allied War Leaders

2019, Sen. John McCain

The Arizona senator, who spent five-and-a-half years as a prisoner in the Vietnam War before launching a long and distinguished political career that included two presidential candidacies and one Republican nomination, was posthumously awarded the Distinguished Service Medal at the 101st American Legion National Convention in Indianapolis. He was a 38-year member of American Legion Post 2 in Tempe. Accepting the award for the McCain family was Ohio Gov. Mike DeWine, a personal friend of McCain's.

Z

You can review the award recipients yourself on Legion's webpage, but some notable winners of the prestigious Legion award included:

Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur (1942), Henry Ford (1944), President Roosevelt, Gen. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Adm. Chester Nimitz (1945), William Randolph Hearst, J. Edgar Hoover, Bob Hope (1946), President Harry Truman, "Babe" Ruth (1949), President John F. Kennedy (1961), Gen. Lucius D. Clay (1962), President Herbert C. Hoover (1965), President Lyndon B. Johnson (1968), President Richard M. Nixon (1969), Henry A. Kissinger (1974), President Gerald R. Ford (1980), President Ronald W. Reagan (1982), President George H. W. Bush (1991), Gen. Colin Powell (1993),

Sen. Robert J. Dole (1997), Sen. Orrin Hatch (2000), President George W. Bush (2008), Gen. David Petraeus (2009), Boy Scouts of America (2010).

Other than McCain, the other two highlighted names feature in this series. We featured Gen. Lucius Clay in Part 1 of this series; he was the Rockefeller banker who helped execute Operation Paperclip. Henry Kissinger is a #PrussiaGate 'Hall of Famer'.

If, after what we've shown so far in this series, you're still not quite convinced there is a 'deep state' government, we are confident that the following evidence will remove any lingering doubts:

In 1939, the Second World War, fostered by international imperialist reaction, broke out. Within two years, the USA was obliged to become one of its direct participants. And immediately, the groups of maganates of capital ruling within the USA, fearing the consequences of the war on internal political life, and recalling with fright the sharp strengthening of the labor movement within the country after the end of World War I, planned an unbridled program for curbing the labor movement. That program was worked out by Lamot Du Pont, vice president of the National Association of Mamufacturers, and adopted in 1942 at a closed session of the committee on resolutions.

As soon as the war ended, the program of struggle against the labor movement was developed further. Broad measures began to be carried out to "bring order" into the state apparatus, Congress, the trade unions, and into the personal and public life of the common American people.

all those who appealed for caution in the execution of foreign policy, were expelled from the government of President Truman, that "provincial politician from the state of Missouri," as American journalists christened him. Assiduous preparation was begun for the elections to the 80th Congress, as a result of which a legislative organ was elected in 1946, which was called "a Congress of Businessmen." This congress was literally flooded with bills directed against the workers. Hundreds of anti-labor bills, one after another, were advanced for its examination. There began in the country the still-continuing "witch-hunt" -- the campaign of destruction of the progressive and democratic forces of the American people, with the purpose of consolidating the control of the monopolists over the labor movement.

When the Association and the Chamber obtained the adoption in 1947 of the draconic Taft-Hartley law, Congressman O'Toole of the House of Representatives openly testified that this law "was phrase for phrase, point for point, page for page, written by the National Association of Manufacturers." The anti-democratic program of the Chamber of Commerce and the NAM found its reflection also in the extraordinary order of President Truman on testing loyalty; in the "internal security" law (McCarran-Byrd Act adopted in 1950); in the law on immigration and naturalization (McCarran-Walter Act, adopted in 1952); and in the decision placing the American Communist Party outside the law (the Brownell-Butler Act, adopted in 1954). These laws, together with the Taft-Hartley law, become ominous landmarks of the era of police terror and political oppression in present-day America.

For the struggle against the labor movement, the rulers of the Association and the Chamber made wide use not only of a number of terroristic organizations of monopolistic capital, but also of the reactionary upper clique of the largest association of American trade unions, the American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations: Meany, Carey, and the other servants of the magnates of Wall Street like them. The reformists within the labor movements, as well as the broad network of spies, informers, and provocateurs spread by the monopolists throughout the country, helped the monopolists to a considerable degree in carrying out their plans for the still greater economic and political enslavement of the people.

The NAM and the Chamber of Commerce finance such organizations as the American Legion, the black-hundred band of the Ku Klux Klan, and many other fascist organizations. In the year 1951 alone, a group of the largest monopolies which held command in the NAM and the Chamber of Commerce allocated 350 million dollars to various reactionary organizations occupied in provocatory activity among the American workers and conducting subversive work in foreign states.

We now learn that the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) was categorized as a fascist organization, it had "rulers", it made use of "terrorist organizations of monopolistic capital", and it funded the Ku Klux Klan and "many other fascist organizations".

Surely connections like this, don't still exist in modern-day politics, do they?

Preparing to Go Global

Now, if you were this invisible enemy, and you had plans to take over the world, you'd probably just expand the existing strategies you had already developed over the centuries. The Prussian pattern of infiltration involves securing one nation, while infiltrating the next. Accepting that this truly does remain their modus operandi, we should be able to observe the path this invisible enemy has taken, and also observe them relocating the "council of the gods" into its new global jurisdiction, ready for deployment:

- (1) Embedded council inside a Nazi corporate cartel. Tick
- (2) Embedded council inside America, the most powerful military nation on earth. Tick
- (3) Embedded council inside a global entity that controls nations.

Well, what do we have here?

Global Future Councils

The World Economic Forum's network of Global Future Councils is the world's foremost multistakeholder and interdisciplinary knowledge network dedicated to promoting innovative thinking to shape a more resilient, inclusive and sustainable future.

The network convenes around 600 of the most relevant and knowledgeable thought leaders from academia, government, international organizations, business, and civil society, grouped in expertise-based thematic councils. It is an invitation-only community and members are nominated for a two-year term.

10

The WEF has a network of “councils” who function within an “invitation-only community”.
Why did this sound strangely familiar?

Interessengemeinschaft

1. community of interests; (= Menschen) group of people sharing interests
2. (ECON) syndicate
